Agenda Overview

Great cities are created by prioritising accessibility, connection and mobility throughout stages of design, development and delivery.

Across transport infrastructure, Smart Mobility provides a revolutionary framework for how governments can deliver faster, safer and more efficient commutes within their cities. By understanding how emerging technologies can help connect communities locally and across regional areas, the public sector can deliver social, environmental and economic outcomes to citizens.

Transforming mobility to deliver such outcomes requires strategic, technical and operational guidance. That's why Public Sector Network's virtual Smart Mobility event is bringing together state and local transport agencies to share best-practice, innovations and solutions transforming the mobility sector. By reviewing a range of current and up-coming projects from across agencies, government can help deliver smarter transport systems for Australia's future cities.
